Transportation from Munich Franz Josef Strauss Airport to Dorint Hotel An der Kongresshalle, Augsburg:

By Train: At the Munich airport, take the S-Bahn: S1 or S8, to the Munich Hauptbahnhof (main station), and take a 45-minute ride. Change there into the Deutsche Bahn (German Rail) train to Augsburg Hauptbahnhof, and after 20, 40 minutes you will be there. The overall price of the two tickets is approximately € 29.

By Bus: This is the cheapest way to get to Augsburg from the Munich Airport, but options are limited as buses only operate during certain hours (usually at 9:50 and 20:35). We recommend you check the website for exact options and booking. The price per trip is € 8 and the trip is around 1.5 hours. The bus arrives next to the Augsburg Park + Ride Nord tramway station. There, you can take the tramway line No. 4 to the City Center. <https://global.flixbus.com>

Volunteers ready to assist you:

Known as SymPaten in Germany, volunteers will wait for you to help you to find connections, find your way to the hotel, events. You will be able to easily recognize them by their outfits: dark blue t-shirt, jacket, and orange umbrella and scarf. You will see them all over: starting at the Munich Airport and the Munich Main Station, as well as at the Augsburg Main Station and the Königsplatz (the central spot for changing tramway lines in the city). Look for them on Monday from 9:30am to 4:30 and Tuesday from 9:30am to 7:00pm.

Money:

Remember to take money in cash with you (euros). Many small and local shops do not take credit cards. There will be ATMs available at banks in various locations throughout the city center. Check this link to locate an ATM. <https://nearest.cash/en>

Weather:

Be ready for autumn! High temperature reaches around 13°C while low temperature can go down as much as 5°C. Make sure you have warm jacket and umbrella with you.
